Our Mission
Girl Scouting builds girls of courage, confidence and character, who make the world a better place.

Our Camp

Camp Maha is just outside Papillion, Nebraska. This natural haven next to the scenic Platte River offers girls exciting outdoor opportunities. Campers may explore the prairie and forest, swim, discover new heights at the challenge ropes course, engage in the arts and cultural exchange with the other girls, experience traditional camping and test their precision at the archery range. They also gain a sense of self-confidence, community and friendship at camp that stays with them long after they go home.

Camping is an essential part of the Girl Scout experience. Girl Scouts—Great Plains Council—Provides valuable camping and outdoor activities at Camp Maha's 52-acres of lush grass and woodlands on the shore of the Platte River. Camp Maha is a place where children and families can explore, study, appreciate and learn to care for each other and the environment. Children who experience the wonders of nature at camp learn about communication, team work, problem solving and positive values—things that teach them to respect themselves and the global community we all share; values that will benefit the girls throughout their lifetime.

Each year thousands of young girls and their families broaden their appreciation of the natural world and develop life skills through Girl Scout outdoor programs at Camp Maha.
